

The Mango House Indian Restaurant has been nominated in Gordon Ramsey's New Production 'Ramsey's Best Restaurant'.

The Mango House restaurant in Magor – which has been opened for almost 13 years is owned and managed by Jang Hussain and his family, Jang opened the original restaurant in Magor in 1998, and he declares that it was his mother's proficient culinary abilities that inspired him to venture in the catering industry, Both his parents originate from the town of Syhlet, in Eastern Bangladesh, and they arrived in Britain in the late 1960's. His parents bought with them a number of traditional family recipes, which were expertly prepared each night by his mother. Jang uses many of his mother's traditional recipes in the restaurants.

The Mango House is renowned throughout South-East Wales for its exquisite food and exemplary service. The original Mango House is characterized by its stone walls and ambient lighting, and it offers a more rustic and homely atmosphere. Just after its 10th anniversary, its success led Jang to open up a new restaurant on Westgate Street, Cardiff, opposite the Millennium Stadium. This restaurant offers a relaxed and inviting atmosphere, that has undoubtedly raised the bar for many modern restaurants. Overall its heavenly cuisine and its elegant and chic décor makes the Mango House one of the finest Indian restaurants in Cardiff.

The Mango House was an award winner for official Cardiff Curry 2008 which was shown on ITV. Along with this it received a 9/10 rating from the Western Mail. The restaurant has been so successful that it has entertained a variety of well known people such as Lord Dafydd Ellis-Thomas, Welsh Opera Singer Rebecca Evans, Celebrity Chef Nancy Lam, Author Rebecca Harris, Director of Golf at the Celtic Manor Jim Mckenzie. Many other high profile people regularly dine at the restaurants such as local MPs and councilors. Jang also appeared in the Wales Business Insider in 2008 for his excellent achievements, and the restaurant is officially recommended by the BBC Eating Out Guide.

In 2009 the Mango House launched an exciting new outdoor catering service for weddings, anniversary's, presentations, and business functions. This new service has continued along with the success of the restaurants - catering for legendary footballer Dennis Irwin and Cardiff City footballer Warren Finney. Another exciting expansion to the business is the increasing number of people who are ordering take aways and making bookings online through mangohouse.co.uk as well as orders being taken through Hungry House.co.uk which appeared on the Dragons Den. Jang is a proud partner of this business and hopes that it brings increasing bookings in the future.

The restaurant has recently enjoyed one of its biggest accolades by being nominated for best restaurant in Gordon Ramsey's new production 'Ramsey's Best Restaurant'. This nomination makes a huge statement in the popularity of this restaurant across South East Wales as it was nominated online by members of the public. The Mango House in Magor is situated approximately 6 miles from the Celtic Manor Resort and it is an official supporter of the Ryder Cup 2010. The restaurant is already popular amongst professional golfers and there caddies and he believes this will increase further once the Ryder Cup takes Place this October in Newport.

If you want to enjoy exquisite Indian cuisine and an atmosphere you'll never forget then head to the Mango House. For more information visit www.mangohouse.co.uk or call 01633 882644 or 02920 232299.
